A MOTHER'S GARDEN.

I see her in the dear, dead years,
Blest in her apt and tender ways;
I catch some sweet or humorous phrase;
She smiles, and then all disappears
In a quick mist of burning tears.

A minute, and she comes again
And loiters where she loitered oft,
Upon the long lawns, close and soft,
Tending the blossoms that might wane
With thirsting for the summer rain.

Like her own children, well she knew
The children of her garden reach,
And ministered to all and each,
From woodbine striving for the blue
To homely lavender and rue.

She loved the phlox on swaying stem,
The yellow lilies' brief, sweet bliss;
The delicate gray clematis,
And rustic Star of Bethlehem.
She watched and tended all of them.

And many a fragrant flower that yet
In fancy I can smell again
At eve or after summer rain,
The stocks, so sweet when dewy wet,
With pansies, will flow'rs and mignonette.

But ah! what matter now: the grace
Is vanished of her gentle touch;
The heart that cared for all so much,
The noble mien, the loving face
Have passed unto a higher place.

The walks, the lawns, the rustling trees,
The mimic wood for many a fern
Expect no more her slow return;
New names, new voices catch the breeze,
And all is changed save memories.

But these are ours until life's slope
Dips down into the darkened dale,
And 'tis by these the dead avail
To help us still, as still we grope
Toward their high, accomplished hope.
Kate Carter in Chambers' Journal.

Reversible Snakes in India.

A snake not often heard of, at least in America, is the liver colored snake with two heads, or perhaps they should be called mouths, though it does not have two mouths at the same time. They are reversible mouths, occupying the opposite end every six months. It lies with the two ends crossed on each other, as with folded hands. Every six months the change of the seasons reverses the functions of the two ends, the head becoming the tail and the tail becoming the head. The mouth at one end heals or closes up all but a small opening, while the opposite end becomes the mouth for the next six months.

A friend of mine in India who told me about this remarkable snake said he refused for a long time to believe that the functions of the two ends were reversed every six months, but one day he found one of these snakes in the jungle and carried it home, where he had a physician examine it. The result was, the physician confirmed the stories of the creature and my friend was skeptical no longer. I learned no other name for this singular reptile than that of "the liver colored snake." Hartford Times.

A Clause in Napoleon's Will.

Peter the Great is said to have made a will in which he exhorted his heirs to approach as nearly as possible to Constantinople and to ward India, but the authenticity of this document has been disputed, and it is shrewdly suspected to have been forged late in the Eighteenth century by August von Kotzebue. Of the genuineness, however, of the last will and testament of the first Napoleon there can be no manner of doubt. One of its clauses was as vindictive as the testamentary injunction of Queen Austrigilda to her husband to have her two doctors killed and buried with her.

The exile of Longwood absolutely bequeathed 10,000 francs to a fellow called Cantillon, who had been tried in Paris for an attempt to murder the Duke of Wellington. The man was still surviving in Brussels when Napoleon III came to the throne, and Cantillon was duly paid his abominable legacy.—London Telegraph.

How Fishermen Are Paid.

The fisherman's life on the banks and the Georges is a very hard one, though they live well on board—better than on shore. They have to, that they may stand the excessive cold; and their pay is like their lives, a floating doubt. The voyage is made on shares. From the gross profits of the catch are deducted the cost of bait and ice, and one-fourth of 1 per cent. for the widows and orphans' fund. One-half of the net "stock," as it is called, goes to the owners of the vessel, the other half to the crew, from which is deducted each man's share of the crew's expenses—that is, cook swages, water, medicine chest, etc.—R. Cleveland Coxe in Century.

A Belfast (Me.) philanthropist takes great pleasure in lending ambitious young men small sums of money with which to go into business on a small scale. He says that he rarely fails to get his money back.

The advantage of the single acting air cylinder over the double is that it compresses a volume of free air only once every revolution; hence there is a better chance to cool air during compression.

In London one policeman is required for every 312 of the population, in the English boroughs one for every 697 and in the rural districts one for every 1,150.

Charles I wrote a fair, open Italian hand more correctly perhaps than any monarch who had preceded him on the English throne.

Ferguson, the astronomer, was a shepherd's son and taught himself astronomy while keeping night guard over the sheep.

HER POSES WERE UNBECOMING.

Distinction Between a Contortion and an Attitude of Adoration.

The natural ruggedness of her face had been materially softened by the hand of art when she seated herself carefully in the photographer's chair and turned her eyes in the direction of the camera. Yet the most careful observer could not be deceived into thinking her beautiful.

"Madam, if you please, look"——

The artist was interrupted by a deprecatory wave of the hand.

"No directions, please. I know just how I want to sit. I have studied myself in many different poses, and I know what I am talking about."

She leaned forward in a careless way, rested her elbow on the table by her side, pressed one finger against her cheek, rolled her eyes until her glance rested upon the ceiling and sighed.

"There," she murmured in a soft ecstacy, "like that. An attitude of adoration, don't you know."

"But, madam"——

"Not a word. I know what I want."

The photographer merely wished to call attention to the distinction between a contortion and an attitude of adoration. He concluded, however, to remain silent.

"There is only one thing," the sitter explained, "upon which I wish to have your opinion."

The artist bowed.

"I can't really make up my mind whether a smile or a pensive look is the more becoming to me."

The artist would not willingly undertake to decide so delicate and intricate a problem without ample study. He essayed to look respectfully interested, but said nothing.

"Do I look better thus?"

She assumed an expression approximating in severity that of the Gorgon Medusa.

"Or thus?"

She stretched her face with a smile that would have caused the stoutest heart to quail.

"Which do you say?"

The artist thought of the delicate mechanism of his camera and groaned in spirit.

"My dear madam"——

She was listening eagerly.

"If you could manage"——

"Oh, yes; certainly."

"Er—between the two expressions it is difficult to decide"——

"Quite right."

"They are equally becoming."

She simpered a weak simulation of dissent.

"And if you could take little of each—a very little"——

She started in horror.

"And try something else"——

She was gone. She had scrambled into her wraps in a twinkling, made a few disjointed observations about being insulted and flitted away.

"A very little of each, to be sure," were the words which rang in the ears of the artist, and it seemed to him they came as in a dream.—Boston Gazette.

John Webster's Genius.

There is something in Webster that reminds me of Victor Hugo. There is the same confusion at times of what is big with what is great, the same fondness for the merely spectacular, the same insensibility to repulsive details, the same indifference to the probable or even to the natural, the same leaning toward the grotesque, the same love of effect at whatever cost, and there is also the same impressiveness of result. Whatever other effect Webster may produce upon us, he never leaves us indifferent. We may blame, we may criticise, as much as we will; we may say that all this ghastliness is only a trick of theatrical blue light; we shudder and admire nevertheless.

We may say he is melodramatic, that his figures are magic lantern pictures that waver and change shape with the curtain on which they are thrown; it matters not, he stirs us with an emotion deeper than any mere artifice could stir.—James Russell Lowell in Harper's.

Ancient Sports Among the Hebrews.

Pigeons as letter carriers tradition tells us were employed at the time when Joshua invaded Palestine as mediums of communication between headquarters and camps in lands far off on the other side of the Jordan. At the time of the Talmud they were used in amusing games. The Talmud tells us that betting was indulged in at the pigeon play. The owner of the pigeon which reached first the point designated was the winner.

Another play connected with betting was the "kubya." Kuby means a small pot (Arabic kubcia, a small glass). The kubya was a little pot wherein dice were shaken and thrown upon the table. The dice were numbered as our modern ones are. Against these two games the Talmud was in arms, and their players were not allowed to appear as witnesses before the bar.—Boston Transcript.

A Basket at the Masthead.

When a sailing master wishes to buy oysters in the ports of the Chesapeake he runs up to the masthead an oyster basket, and presently has plenty offered at the vessel's side. Down at Chincoteague island the basket at the masthead is sometimes accompanied by a flag of concentric squares in different colors. During the closed season for oysters the flag and basket indicate that the master wishes to buy clams.—New York Sun.

An Intelligent but Predatory Cow.

I once lived in a village where one-half the inhabitants kept cows, and expected them to forage their living off the other half. Finding the usual gate fastenings of no avail, I added a bolt, and slept that night secure. The next morning every cow in the village was in my garden, and so full of cabbages that cost me two dollars a head to raise that they could not go through the gate, and I had to knock down a panel of fence to let them out. That night I added a log chain and a patent padlock, and sat up in company with a double barreled gun to watch the proceedings.

An old brindled she pirate came up and surveyed the house to make sure we were abed. Then she shook the gate and again surveyed the house. Next she went to work on the bolt with her tongue. In five minutes she had it drawn and started to come in. She looked surprised to find herself still on the outside. Half a dozen of her companions came up and surveyed the new jewelry. Then brindle broke a horn trying to lift the gate off its hinges.

They appeared to hold a council of war; then an old spotted gormand inserted a horn under the chain, lifted it over the post and the whole drove marched inside. I gave it up and took the gate off its hinges. I now raise all my vegetables at the market.—Exchange.

Maurice de Guerin and His Sister.

Five years before the volume containing the journal, letters and poems of Maurice de Guerin was published, the public had learned to know his sister Eugenie and delight in her wonderful letters. Indeed, Sainte-Beuve thought her genius equal, if not superior, to her brother's; but Matthew Arnold, to whom the English speaking world is indebted for a first introduction to the brother, says:

No one has a more profound respect for M. Sainte-Beuve's critical judgments than I have; but it seems to me that this particular judgment needs to be a little explained and guarded. In Maurice's special talent, which was a talent for interpreting nature, for finding words which incomparably render the subtlest impression which nature makes upon us, which brings the intimate life of nature wonderfully near to us, it seems to me that his sister was by no means his equal. She never, indeed, expresses herself without grace and intelligence; but her words, when she speaks of the life and appearances of nature, are, in general but intellectual signs—they are not like her brother's—symbols equivalent with the thing symbolized.—Scribner's.

Use the Snakes to Bind the Sheaves.

Several parties were telling snake stories. Each one tried to tell a better snake story than the other, until finally the rivalry became so great that some of the story tellers began to diverge a little from the line of truth. Alex Barr was taking it all in, and when he thought the thing had gone about far enough he said:

"I'll never forget the year the rattlesnakes were so bad down in Clarion county. It was awful. I remember one day a number of us were harvesting wheat, and as the men went along with their cradles they cut the heads off of two or three rattlers at every stroke."

"Great heavens!" exclaimed a bystander. "I would have thought that the stench of so many dead snakes lying around would have given everybody the cholera. What did you do with the carcasses?"

"Well," replied Mr. Barr, "we used the snakes to bind the sheaves with, and when thrashing time came we took them off, rendered the fat out and sold it for soap grease."

That concluded the snake stories for the day.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

A Medical Incident in "Romola."

Is it not surprising that George Eliot, with all her knowledge of the innermost workings of the human mind, should have lost her way when dealing with the morbid changes of mind and brain? Tito's father, Baldassare, had been a great scholar, but after a long illness his memory upon recovery became a perfect blank; he could recall nothing of his scholarship, though he had not forgotten who he was. With all this, Baldassare is not represented as having lost his reason. He remembers his past life, but he can no longer read or write, or recall any of his scholarship for which he had been so distinguished. It was not amnesia nor agraphia with which he was afflicted; it was a form of cerebral disease known only to the eminent novelist.—British Medical Journal.

How a Miser Selected an Heir.

As like effects like, so it is with misers; and gold will go where gold is. This is strikingly illustrated by the act of a celebrated Greek, one Dicheous Dichoeus, a descendant of the Byzantine emperors. This man, by the exercise of extreme niggardliness, managed to amass the sum of £10,000—an immense fortune in those days.

Then came the question to whom should he leave it. One day a distant relative sent him a letter written upon a square inch of paper; this was sufficient. In the fitness of things the parsimonious correspondent became the miser's heir.—Cassell's Journal.

DYSPEPSIA.

IS that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diabolical arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir from which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system. Among a dozen dyspeptics no two will have the same predominant symptoms. Dyspeptics of active mental power and a bilious temperament are subject to Sick Headache; those, fleshy and phlegmatic have Constipation, while the thin and nervous are abandoned to gloomy forebodings. Some dyspeptics are wonderfully forgetful; others have great irritability of temper.

Whatever form Dyspepsia may take, one thing is certain,

The underlying cause is in the LIVER, and one thing more is equally certain, no one will remain a dyspeptic who will

A JUST DECISION.

The decision rendered by the State Supreme Court last Saturday that there should be no party headings on the official ballots to be used under the Australian system, is both just and wise. It is in accord with the advice given to voters in these columns from time to time. It is now INCUMBENT on the voter to scan his ticket carefully and stamp a cross in the square opposite the name of the candidate he wishes to vote for. Under this decision there is only one way the Bosses can defeat the will of the people and that is by bribing the election officers, who if they be not honest men can manipulate the ballot of the illiterate voter in the interest of this or that party or this or that individual candidate. If an election officer be called upon by a voter who cannot read or write the English language correctly to make out his ballot that officer should be compelled to do so before all the other officers to ensure fair play all around. For one man to go secretly into the voting booth and make out a ballot for another man who can neither read nor write is not the proper thing. Everything must be open and above board to ensure a fair vote and an honest count.

In other words to ensure the purity of our new ballot system, the illiterate voter's ticket should receive the same consideration at the hands of the entire board of election officers of a precinct as a ballot receives when it is counted.

GEO. B. BAER, editor of the Cloverdale Reveille, who is a Republican from away back, and who by the way is independent in his expressions, has this to say of the Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county, which body has been run the past four years by Supervisor Cady of Sonoma: "The tax levy for State and County uses for 1893 is $1.05 on each $100. It might have been $1 if the Supervisors had been inclined to cut off a good many extravagant expenses. There are far too many leeches hanging on to the county treasury. Each member of the Board seems to be an agent for extending outside aid to hangers on. A friend at our elbow states that a certain woman has been receiving $10 per month as charity, for several years, though a money lender; for he recently paid her a note and interest for $900 for a party for whom he was assignee. These things ought to be looked into."

Now, Brother Baer, in the face of the above admission, how can you cast your vote for Mr. Cady for Assemblyman, anyhow? Now don't fall back on the United States Senator "racket." That, like voting your ticket straight, is about played out.

IT is no wonder that the Republicans of San Francisco are up in arms against the legislative ticket of their party in that city. A more disreputable lot of candidates could not be found anywhere. Of course among them, now and then, there stands out in bold relief a good citizen, but it is the exception and not the rule. Here are a few of their names and occupations clipped from the Morning Call, a Republican newspaper which is opposing their election: John F. Martin, nominee for Senator, runs the bar in the notorious Bella Union Theatre, one of the most disreputable resorts in San Francisco; J. J. Fallon, candidate for the Assembly, is a bartender by occupation; John A. Honey, likewise a nominee for the Assembly, is a saloon keeper on Brannan street; John O'Brien, who is running for Senator in the thirty-seventh district is employed as a chicken picker in the Sixth-street market; John Hayes, for Senator, conducts a saloon on Jackson street near Montgomery avenue, a disreputable quarter of San Francisco; John Rice, a notorious rounder, is the nominee for Assemblyman in the forty-third district.

The above are only a few of the would be statesmen who want to go to Sacramento to make laws for the decent people of California.

If you want to enjoy meals strengthen your digestion with Simmons Liver Regulator.

On the way to Paradise.

Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surroundings generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why should we voluntarily endure the tortures of dyspepsia, when a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will rid us of the atrocious malady which—unless physicians are very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. Heartburn, biliousness, constipation almost always accompany this complaint and are symptomatic of it. These are all extinguished by the Bitters, which also conquers completely malaria, rheumatism, nervousness and debility. Since the appearance of "la grippe" it has shown a singular mastery over this formidable complaint that has carried off so many of our brightest and best.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Light house,

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, get you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wegner's Drugstore.

POSTOFFICE MONEY ORDERS.

Hereafter, post-office money orders and postal notes drawn by California postoffices on the San Francisco postoffice will be honored by business houses and banks in that city the same as checks and drafts are, and will pass through the San Francisco Clearing House Association. The face value of each order or note will be placed to the credit of the remitter without first calling at the postoffice there for the money. This makes the orders and notes the same as greenbacks to a limited extent: They become a circulating medium for transactions between interior towns and San Francisco, in which city the orders and notes may pass from one person to another as so much paper money, the postoffice being in effect the bank where cash may at any time be obtained for them.

Some time ago Dr. Edmund Beckwith of Petaluma, formerly of Santa Rosa, fell into an open ditch at Petaluma and received injuries which laid him up for a number of weeks. He brought suit against Petaluma city for $20,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received through negligence of defendent city. The case came up before Judge Dougherty Monday on demurrer and the case was virtually decided against the doctor. Judge Dougherty held that the authorities of the State are perfectly uniform in holding that a city is not liable for failing to keep a highway in repair unless the legislature expressly makes it so liable, and that the city charter of Petaluma does not make that municipality liable.—Republican.

The Candidates' ball which was to have taken place at Native Sons' Hall, Glen Ellen, last Thursday evening, was postponed owing to the Estee-White meeting in Santa Rosa. The ball, however, will take place some time this month, due notice of which will be given in these columns.

"Annie Laurie." a valuable brood mare, and half-sister of Katie Pease the celebrated racer, J. B. Chase. owner, was shipped from San Francisco to Sonoma last Thursday. By some means or another the mare, which is a spirited animal, got away from the train men and went racing down one of the principal streets of the town. The animal was subsequently found none the worse for her few hours of freedom.

As heretofore announced in these columns the St Francis' Church Fair will open on next Tuesday evening the 25th inst. For the amusement of visitors there will be a varied programme each night. All the ladies having the Fair in hand are working most energetically to render it successful. To teach all how to vote under the new law law there will be an election booth which promises to be most successful. Since the last published list of premiums the following have been added to the list of donors, viz: Mr. Linforth, Mr. Merle and Mr. Cady. During the Fair school children will be admitted free from three to five o'clock each day.

Joe Anderson, the well-known teamster, while at work on the Pless ranch, one day last week, was struck on the left leg by the heel of a rusty plow share. At the time he thought nothing of the hurt and went about his work as usual. A couple of days after the accident, however, the wound, which was a small but deep cut, commenced to pain him and he was compelled to quit work and call in the services of a doctor. For the past week he has been lying flat on his back in his room in the Sonoma House suffering much pain and threatened with serious blood-poisoning. The past two days he has been improving and will be up and around again in a short time.

Singular Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Dowdall, while driving along Napa street near Wegner's drug store, in a go-cart, last Tuesday evening, the night being a very dark one, they were ran down by a horseman, who came tearing down the street from an opposite direction. As the horseman's steed came in contact with the go-cart there was a loud crash and in a second Mr. and Mrs. Dowdall, the go-cart, the horseman and the two animals were all mixed up together in the middle of the street. The horseback rider, strange to relate, was Mrs. Dowdall's brother, Frank Redmond. He was thrown headlong to the ground and his horse fell on top of him. Mr. and Mrs. Dowdall were also hurled violently to the ground, but miraculously escaped serious injury. Mrs. Dowdall had a thumb dislocated, Mr. Redmond had his leg slightly injured while Mr. Dowdall came out of the wreck unscathed. The go-cart was badly damaged.

Gas Light For Sonoma.

At a special meeting of the City Trustees, held last Wednesday evening, an ordinance was introduced and passed to second reading authorizing the calling of a special election to vote on the proposition as to whether or not Sonoma shall vote bonds to own and conduct its own gas works. It is the opinion of many of the substantial property-owners of this city that the proposition is a good one and will prove a paying investment, to say nothing of the great benefits to be derived by having a gas light plant in Sonoma. This town is away behind the times in many things, particularly so in the matter of light, and now that the question of lighting the town is being agitated we trust that our people will investigate the matter before crying the proposition down.

Cutting Scrape.

H. Hodgens and Pete McGowan grape-pickers employed near the Hearst place, became engaged in an altercation Wednesday afternoon, when the latter drew a grape knife from his pocket and slashed Hodgens in two places back of the neck. The injured man was taken to the Home and his wounds, which are not serious, were attended to by Dr. Osbourne. Hodgens claims that he was lying down sleeping and that McGowan stealthily approached him and struck him with the knife and attempted to rob him of $20. He managed to break loose from his assailant, however, but not before he was struck by the knife again. His cries for assistance brought a number of Chinese to his aid and McGowan made his escape. No arrests.

Sonoma Wines in the East.

J. D. Lais of Toledo, Ohio, was in town this week and purchased a large invoice of white and red wines from D. D. Davisson which he will ship to Toledo, where he has established a house which will deal exclusively in Sonoma Valley and other California wines and brandies. The demand for the product of California vineyards in the East is steadily on the increase and the day is not far distant when the foreign brands of wines and brandies will be driven from the market by the cheapness and superiority of the California article.

Republican Meeting.

The citizens of Sonoma should turn out to-night in force to hear Hon. A. E. Bolton and other Republican speakers. A number of the county nominees will also be present. Mr. Bolton is a pleasing speaker and we are sure will not fail to interest his auditors. After the speaking there will be a social dance in which everybody is invited to participate. There can be no excuse for Republicans not turning out.

The Turners' Ball.

Great preparations are being made by the Sonoma Turn Verein society for their ball which will take place in Sonoma on Thanksgiving Eve. This society has a large and active membership and is constantly increasing in numbers. The officers of the society are well-known and prominent in this valley, which is a sufficient guarantee that the ball to be given by the Sonoma Turners will be a success both financially and socially.

Frost and Grapes.

The weather the past week has been characterized by heavy white frosts, the roofs of houses and barns being covered a pure white before sunrise. So far no damage to grapes has been reported and it is thought no injury will result from these early frosts as grapes are too far advanced to be seriously damaged.

THE GEARY MEETING.

Union Hall Embowered With Flowers.

One of the most enthusiastic receptions ever accorded a candidate in Sonoma was that which greeted Congressman Tom Geary at Union Hall last Saturday. The Democratic ladies of Sonoma had decorated the hall with flowers, evergreens and ferns as it had never before been decorated. A beautiful floral piece worthy of mention was a large easy chair which occupied a position to the left of the stage.

The meeting was called to order by Hon. Robt. Howe, and when he presented Mr. Geary to his constituents the reception accorded him amounted to an ovation.

At the outset Mr. Geary discussed the tariff question in a style peculiarly his own, and it must be admitted, even by Republicans, that he made some pretty good points. After talking on the tariff issue for an hour he wound up by stating that he was a candinate for re-election to Congress, and gave several good reasons why he should be returned to complete his labors in that body.

During the course of his speech he was frequently interrupted by applause and when he had concluded he was cheered to the echo.

After the meeting the floor was cleared for dancing, Geo. W. Hooper and Geo. Engler acting as floor managers, and a real enjoyable time was had by all who participated. Those present were about equally divided as between Democrats and Republicans.

The Chemical Works.

Fred. T. Duhring, Vice President of the Sonoma Valley Bank, will be in town to-day and will meet any of our citizens who are interested in the wellfare of Sonoma in the Directors room of the bank, and explain to them the result of his inquries into the matter of establishing chemical works in this town. Mr. Duhring is one of Sonoma's substantial business men and he has looked into the proposition thoroughly. We are not informed as to what conclusion he has arrived at. The meeting at the bank will take place at half-past ten o'clock.

GLEN ELLEN.

Mrs. H. Wright is building an addition to her cottage below town.

Miss L. Driscoll left for Grass Valley last Monday where she will reside in future.

Quite a number of Glen Ellen's solid voters attended the tariff debate at Santa Rosa last Wednesday evening.

The public school children will give an entertainment October 28th for the purpose of raising funds for a flag and flag pole.

B. P. Ephlin, agent of the Southern Pacific Company at this place, was taken ill last week and has gone to the railroad hospital at Sacramento for treatment.

Mrs. Thos. Bell left for San Francisco last Sunday, being summoned there by the sad intelligence that her husband had died very suddenly at their home in that city.

W. I. Williams of this place has lately been visiting all the points of interest from Oregon to southern California and states that he has yet to find a locality equal to his farm at the Warm Springs near Glen Ellen.

An enjoyable birthday surprise party was tendered to Miss May Thierkoff last Friday evening. Games and music were the principal features of the evening and the many friends of the young lady spent a very pleasant evening.

C. H. Bruning, a prominent Native Son and Granger and who represented the latter organization at their meeting in San Jose last week, was married in San Francisco to Miss A. Oxen of San Leandro last Thursday. The young couple returned home last Saturday and will reside in future on their farm on Sonoma Mountain.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, October 20th, 1892.

Wm. Bihler the well-known farmer and stock-raiser, was badly bruised Saturday by being thrown from a cart about noon, in the vicinity of the residence of C. S. Gibson, on the Lakeville road. The horse which Mr. Bihler was driving took fright at the report of a gun fired by a hunter shooting quail. The injured man was brought to the city by Mr. Gibson and it was found that his injuries were more painful than serious, no bones being broken.—Petaluma Courier.

The great Dr. Boerhaave left three directions for preserving the health—keep the feet warm, the head cool, and the bowels open. Had he practiced in our day, he might have added: and purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; for he certainly would consider it the best.

Vote for Somers B. Fulton of Fulton, for County Clerk. He is both honest and capable. *

A KICK.

The Judge Gets There With Both Feet.

MR. EDITOR:

I herewith complain of the Board of Trustees and charge them with gross negligence, as follows: When the bell tower was built some shingles on the roof of the Pavilion were broken by the carpenters at work on the tower. In consequence the rain comes down into the Trustees meeting room and upon the Clerk's desk in rivulets, damaging books and papers.

The honorable Board at the last adjourned meeting refused to have the leak stopped, and I was told to move the desk to some other place. As the desk is difficult to move and as there is no better place for the desk in the room, I had to repair the roof myself. The Board is talking wildly about tearing down the Pavilion and erecting a two-story building in the center of the Plaza, but it strikes me that it would be better policy to preserve what we have got and to wait until there will be more money in the treasury than there is now raised on the inadequate levy of twenty cents on the one hundred dollars taxable property. It seems to me that the present Board is penny wise and pound foolish. This is nothing but a one horse town blessed with an eight-acre Plaza, anyhow. Gentlemen go slow! What do the people of Sonoma think about it?

Yours truly,

F. BREITENBACH,
City Clerk.

COUNTY ITEMS.

Henry Poehlman, a butcher of Petaluma, lost the middle finger of his right hand last Sunday morning by having it cut off with a sausage machine.

Charles Schmidt, a barber, was found dead in his room at the American Hotel, Petaluma, Sunday afternoon. The coroner's inquest, held by Justice Whallon, found that death was due to natural causes.

An attempt was made by a man named McGinnis of Petaluma to railroad his wife into an insane asylum last Monday. The persecuted woman was taken to Santa Rosa for medical examination and discharged from custody by Judge Dougherty. Mrs. McGinnis claims that through the bad treatment of her husband she has been reduced to straightened circumstances, being unable to procure suitable clothing for herself. She says her husband wants a separation from her in order that he may bestow his attentions on other women. He promised her $15 a month, she says, but that for several months he has not given her a third of that sum. She admits that her troubles may have driven her to the verge of desperation at times, but that she is as sound mentally as ever. The examining board evidently took the same view of it.

The Fair Ranch.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 22, 1892.

THE TRIUMPH WAS HERS.

A Resolute Little Woman Who Humbled a Haughty Glass Setter.

There is just now a triumphant little lady on Dearborn avenue, near Chicago avenue, and only a block away is a glazier who is suffering the horrors of defeat.

In the Dearborn avenue house were two broken window panes. One of these was entirely destroyed and the other had only a small corner broken off. The glazier was sent for to replace them.

Now the lady had two small pictures in need of glass, and the big pane was just the thing. She would have it cut to fit them and would be so much ahead. But when she had paid the workman the big pane of glass was gone.

She sent the domestic over for it, but the glazier refused to give it up. "It vhas der rules of der shop," he explained blandly. Then the little woman went over.

"See here, I paid you what you asked for putting in those panes and you've carried off my own glass. I want that glass, now."

"Vhell, you pays feefty cents. Der rules of der shop say so."

"I don't care anything about the rules of the shop. You've taken my glass and I want it."

"Vhell, you ged oudt," he returned, and the little woman retreated.

Later in the evening she went back accompanied by her husband. The husband without any preface walked up to the counter, took up the window pane and started out with it.

"Police! Police! shrieked the excited workman, rushing out on the sidewalk. The husband laid the glass down as two officers from the Chicago avenue station hurried up. The situation was explained, and the police told the husband to take the glass if he was certain of the property. When he looked around, however, it had disappeared.

They were outwitted. Justice Kersten was appealed to to recover the property under a criminal warrant. It wouldn't stick. Then the little woman decided to bide her time. It came.

Three mornings later the glazier's boy rung the bell. Did the glazier leave a hammer there the other day?

"Oh, yes," replied the landlady stoutly.

The glazier needed it very badly.

"That's all right. Tell him it's the rules of this house that we keep all the tools left here. If he wants his hammer tell him to return my glass."

Ten minutes later the boy was at the door with the pane of glass. The landlady took it.

"Tell your boss he was mistaken—he didn't leave his hammer here!" And the door closed with a bang.

Later it was learned that the hammer was left next door.—Chicago News.

Gunboats Used as Ferryboats.

Passengers by ferry between Brooklyn and New York are probably sometimes not aware that during the short voyage they are standing upon the deck of a former vessel of war. When the struggle of 1861-5 broke out the Union was almost without a navy and was compelled to improvise her fleets. The department seized fit craft, or those which might be made fit, wherever it could find them. Among those taken were a number of then familiar vessels on the South, Wall, Fulton and other ferries. The implication of the then is not altogether exact, because some of them are still in use here, having returned to duty with the company after the conclusion of peace.

These improvised gunboats did good service. Some of them perished gallantly in the conflict. Of course one of the ships of the new navy would make short work of all of them in a squadron, but in the circumstances they had to meet chiefly improvised rivals, and they did their duty well.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Wild Horses in British Columbia.

In an area about fifteen miles square below Trout creek, in British Columbia, is a band of at least 700 wild horses. They are not only eating off the stock ranges, but are becoming a more direct source of loss to stock owners, for they entice away good horses, especially the colts. The government has several times been petitioned either to exterminate the band or give the settlers permission to do it, but thus far no action has been taken. Though these wild horses are worthless little animals, the authorities are afraid that killing them will give offense to the Indians, who claim some of them, but who nevertheless shoot without hesitation when any of the horses interferes with their tame animals.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Dark Secret.

Algy—I say, Cholly, how do you manage to get such nice fitting clothes, don't ye know?

Cholly (mysteriously)—Don't you tell.

"Pon honah."

"I have 'em made in this country."—New York Weekly.

Juvenile Amenities.

Mamma—Aren't you good friends with that little girl any more?

Small Daughter—Yes'm.

"Then why didn't you bow to her?"

"'Cause I'm all dressed up."—Good News.

Scientific investigators assert that in beginning to sleep the senses do not unitedly fall into slumber, but drop off one after another. The sight ceases in consequence of the protection of the eyelids to receive impressions first, while all the other senses preserve their sensibility entire. The sense of taste is the next which loses its susceptibility to impression, and then the sense of smelling. The hearing is next in order, and last of all comes the sense of touch. Furthermore, the senses are brought to sleep with different degrees of profoundness. The sense of touch sleeps the most lightly and is the most easily awakened; the next easiest is the hearing, the next is the sight, and the taste and smelling awake last.

Another remarkable circumstance deserves notice; certain muscles and parts of the body begin to sleep before others. Sleep commences at the extremities, beginning with the feet and legs and creeping toward the center of nervous action. The necessity of keeping the feet warm and perfectly still as a preliminary of sleep is well known. From these explanations it will not appear surprising that there should be an imperfect kind of mental action which produces the phenomena of dreaming.—American Analyst.

"August Flower"

What Is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

ALAMOSA, COL., Jan., '89. 1-11

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would set violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed, otherwise her body would cramp and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect D. S. M'GILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 354 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1889: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $75 worth.

NAGLE IN COURT.

In the Justice's Court of Santa Rosa Township, Sonoma County, California.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff, vs. F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1888, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100 to-wit, $80, for his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is in debted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1888, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for a judgment against defendant for the sum of $80 and costs.

Do Not Fancy

that because the summer is over, the season for recreation is past. From now on until the hot days return, will in many respects be the most delightful part of the year. The tempered atmosphere, pure, and stimulating, has the effect of a strong tonic, and recreation is lots more pleasurable because one can move without melting. Little need to hunt long for a place to go.

THE SIERRA NEVADA

abounds plentifully in interesting features that are to be seen at their best in autumn. From Mount Shasta to Tehachapi are many delightful places, and the difference in latitude causes very little difference in climatic conditions. It is as genial, north as south; the air as balmy and bracing, high or low, and semi-tropical luxuriance marks a wide path for hundreds of miles.

ORANGE GROVES

in Oroville and Auburn are as beautiful and interesting as in Riverside and San Gabriel, and all north and south are in the zenith of their glory in midwinter.

MOUNT SHASTA

is as majestic in November as in May. The Tavern of Castle Crags has grown more hospitable, if possible. The sublime scenery of has taken on a deeper and richer tint; the air fairly intoxicates; the resorts are so cheerful.

LAKE TAHOE

YOSEMITE VALLEY

will welcome visitors till the last of November, and treat them royally at all times.

The Geysers and Lake County are at their best now. Clear Lake is a charming scene—a rich setting in "America's Switzerland."

ALONG THE SEASIDE

there is no wintry chill. Del Monte is cheery outside and in, and its luxurious comforts never were so attractive. Santa Cruz still has its tide of merry-making visitors. Santa Barbara has become the Mecca of Eastern visitors, fleeing from rigorous winters.

Warm healing waters add health to the cheering comforts of Paso Robles and Byron. A dash in the surf at Santa Monica and Long Beach is as exhilarating in January as in July. The tropical beauties of Palm Valley are never seen to better advantage than now, and those afflicted with lung weaknesses find immediate, often permanent, relief there. The lines of the reach all these points, and for better information concerning them inquire of any of its agents.
